

Alan Seadler holds the Edward V. Fritsky Chair in Biotechnology Leadership and director for the Center for Biotechnology at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. Dr. Seadler has had an extensive career in the Bio-Medical industry. Prior experiences include management positions at Ciba-Corning, Fisher Scientific, and Amersham Life Science. In addition Dr. Seadler has held senior management positions with several area startups including BDS and Visible Genetics He was most recently Chief Executive Officer for Crystalplex a start-up nanotechnology company. Prior to Crystalplex, Dr. Seadler was Chief Operating officer at Cellomics Inc. a drug discovery company followed by a term as vice-president at the Pittsburgh Life Sciences Greenhouse. Alan holds a Ph.D. in Biology from Case Western Reserve University.